GETTING IN SHAPE: SECURITY SOLUTION FOR A LOCAL FITNESS CENTER

How BomaShield created a tailored solution to help a local fitness center manage security and limit onsite liability.

ABOUT CROSSFIT TUALATIN

Based outside of Portland, OR, CrossFit Tualatin is a popular local fitness center that offers customized workout regimens to help its members achieve their fitness goals. Recently acquired by Jaime and Ian Rice, CrossFit Tualatin is committed to providing its members with the best fitness services and resources.

CHALLENGE

01. No existing alarm system

CrossFit Tualatin lacked an alarm system, leaving their facility vulnerable to break-ins, trespassing, theft, and other incidents.

02. Liability potential

Because they didn't have a security system in place, they could not limit liability for potential staff and customer injuries that could occur on the property.

03. Facility and equipment left exposed

COVID-19 and social distancing requirements forced workouts outside and exposed some equipment, especially after hours. With no way to monitor the facility in real-time, they could not manage building access. As a temporary measure, exterior cameras were installed, however, the location needed a security solution to manage after-hours access and support future business growth.

SOLUTION

We quickly implemented a security system tailored toward CrossFit Tualatin's unique onsite needs.

24/7 video surveillance

Cameras were installed throughout the facility, covering high traffic areas, like entrances, exits, and workout areas.

IQ alarm system

Leveraging DSC's PowerG wireless technology (128-bit encrypted communication), CrossFit Tualatin gained an affordable, reliable, and expandable security solution.

Remote access management

With the help of Alarm.com's mobile app, management could grant access to the appropriate staff members without being physically present.

RESULTS

The results of a new security system were quick, with immediate results seen across critical areas:

Peace of mind

CrossFit Tualatin can focus on its members and growing the business without worrying about safety and liability concerns.

Centralized management

The centralized remote control has helped owners manage their location and improve security across their separate financial services business.

Liability limitations

Management and ownership can limit liability by addressing safety protocols, to reduce potential injuries and slip and fall accidents, with cameras installed throughout the facility.

Neighborhood security

Available security footage helped with the investigation of a robbed neighboring business.

BomaShield has been an amazing improvement over our other systems. With different locations and businesses it's great to have a single point of access for our security needs. We're several years in and loving it.

Ian Rice

Affiliate Owner, CrossFit Tualatin

Thanks to BomaShield Security, CrossFit Tualatin is securely protected and will continue keeping customers safe.

Having experienced early success, the team would like to potentially expand their system to include Alarm.com's access control platform to grant employees electronic access to the facility.
